COMMUNITY PARTNERS HEALTHNET, USER OF MICROMD PRODUCTS, TO PRESENT
AT HIMSS 09
Doug Smith's presentation to explore using network-based economies of scale to afford IT applications

CHICAGO – March 31, 2009 – Doug Smith, CEO and CIO of Community Partners HealthNet (CPH), will be a featured speaker at the HIMSS 09 Annual Conference & Exhibition in Chicago. The presentation, titled “Network Economies of Scale and Improved Clinical Outcomes in Network EHR Implementations,” will be held on Monday, April 6 at 9:45 a.m.

Using his experience with MicroMD's electronic medical records (EMR) system as a backdrop for the presentation, Smith will discuss how community health organizations can leverage economies of scale by establishing cooperative networks to acquire advanced IT applications and services, such as EMR systems and data warehouses. The presentation will include real-world examples of returns on investment and improved clinical outcomes, as well as practical ways to implement a similar business model in other organizations.

CPH, a network of community health centers including 43 medical and dental clinics with 105 physicians, mid-level providers and dentists, was created in 1999 as a way to create the economies of scale necessary to purchase an EMR system and to manage data in a more efficient manner. Since selecting and implementing MicroMD EMR, in combination with MicroMD PM and Dentrax, CPH members have streamlined the collection and presentation of clinical data and improved the quality of care for patients.

Smith, who has 40 years of experience in IT and 25 years of experience with community health centers, is responsible for overseeing the CPH network of seven community health centers. His accomplishments with the organization include helping member centers secure technologies and improving their ability to capture data in order to provide better patient care. In addition, Smith acts as the CEO of Greene County Health Care, a CPH member.
